The Marlow's

This was taken from the material submitted by Marion E. Thornsberry to the History of Perry Co. III.

The first Marlows came from England to America about 1654. Their starting point is not known, but there is a town "Marlow" ten miles west of London. The "Mar" is Roman-Celtic for "Lake" and "low" is from Anglo-Saxon "leagh", also lake.

Virginia-Maryland colonial records show many Marlows but so far not enough to trace them. George Marlow first appears in Pittsylvania Co., Va. in 1790. He moved to Wilson Co. Tn. where he died about 1812, leaving his widow Ellender and children Edward, Richard, George, Sarah, Elizabeth, Payton (Patton), Barksdale (Basdal) and Carter.

Richard, Carter and Basdal came to Perry Co. about 1830. James Marlow, probably a cousin, came to Jefferson Co. about 1830 also.

(See Basdal's record of land purchases.)

Richard's Birth and death dates are not known and no will is in the County records. Other records show his wife Tabitha, daughters Eliza (m. Berry Anderson) and Milberry (m. William Jones), and son Joel (1828-1914) who married Deliah Wilson in 1849.

Carter Marlow (1795-1861) married Seletta Bryant in 1812. Their son William R. (1820-1878) married Basdal's daughter Rebecca Angeline (1835-1915).

(Note: These are first-cousins who married which was a common practice in the South.)

Son James Rufus (1824 -?) married Margaret Donaldson
Daughters Lydia (1825-?) and Harriet Matilda (1827-1873)
Basdal II (1830-1870)
Sophronia ((1836-?))

Son Richard (1814 was wounded at Buena Vista, 1847 during the Mexican War and died at the Battle of Vicksburg in 1863

Barksdald (Basdal) Marlow our ancestor (1789-1864), married Nancy Lynch (1793-1864). Their son Samuel Isaac (1815-1904) m. Anna Williamson Bridges (1818-1905).
Daughter Louisa Eliza (1818-1864) married Andrew Robertson in 1846.
Matthew (1816-?) married Nancy Wilson in 1837.
Milas McCorkle (1828-1896) married Mary Carolyn Metcalf in 1847.
Mary Jane (1829-?) married Benjamin Abernethy.

Rebecca Angeline (1835-1915) Married 1st. William R. Marlow
2nd. James A. Marlow of Jefferson Co.

Bartley(1833-1912) Married Perniana Lynch

Sterling Coleman, Robert Robinson and Alexander Marlow and their Cousin Richard enlisted in the Army and fought at the Battle of Buena Vista Feb. 23, 1847 during the Mexican War.

Sterling and Robert were Killed. Alexander survived, but joined the Army after their father died in 1864, and himself died later in the year at Pine Bluff, Ark. leaving his wife Caroline Bridges(1826-?) and five Children.

Carter Marlow (1795-1861) married Seletta Bryant in 1812. Their son William R. (1820-1878) married Basdal's daughter, Rebecca Angeline (1835-1915). Son James Rufus (1824-?) married Margaret Donaldson (1833-?). Daughters Lydia (1825-?), and Harriet Matilda (1827-1873+), m. Thomas Stother) were followed by Basdell 2nd (1830-1870+ married Talitha Lynch?) and Sophronia (1836-?) m. Thomas Cross. Son Richard, b. 1814, married Mary Yearian. He was wounded at Buena Vista, 1847, during the Mexican War, and died at the Battle of Vicksburg in 1863.

Barksdale (Basdal) (1789-1864), married Nancy Lynch (1793-1864). Their son Samuel Isaac (1815-1904) m. Anna Williamson Bridges (1818-1905). Daughter Louisa Eliza (1818-1864) m. Andrew Robertson in 1846. Matthew (1816-?) married Nancy Wilson in 1837. Milas McCorkle (1828-1896) m. Mary Carolyn Metcalf (1830-1912) in 1847. Mary Jane (1829-?) m. 1846 Benjamin Abernethy. Rebecca Angeline (1835-1915) m. 1st William R. Marlow, and 2nd James A. Marlow of Jefferson Co. Bartly (1833-1912 m. Pernina Lynch. Sterling Coleman, Robert Robison and Alexander Marlow and their cousin Richard enlisted in the Army and fought at the Battle of Buena Vista Feb. 23, 1847 during the War with Mexico. Sterling and Robert were killed. Alexander (b. 1825) survived, but joined the Army after their father died in 1864, and himself died later in the year at Pine Bluff, Ar., leaving his wife Caroline Bridges (1826-?) and five chil-

The Marlows settled mostly southwest of Tamaroa, around the Nine Mile and Holts Prairie Baptist churches. Many of the Pioneer families are buried in the Old Campbell Cemetery. Their descendants, of course, are scattered everywhere, but many allied families and a few Marlows are still in the same area. — Submitted by Marion E. Thornsberry

MARLOW-BRIDGES

Samuel Marlow (1815-1903), the son of Basdal and Nancy (Lynch) Marlow, was born Jan. 5, 1815 in Wilson Co., Tn. When a boy of 15 years, he came to Perry Co. with his parents.

On Dec. 19, 1839 he chose as a life companion Annie Bridges (1818-1904), the daughter of Tyra Bridges. They were the parents of 9 children:

Tyra Rutherford (1840) who married Emeline Robinson.

Gideon Rutherford (1843) who married Sallie McCarver.

Sterling Bartley "Hinck" (1845) who married Catherine Heape and had one son, John S. Catherine died one week after John's birth. He, then, married her sister, Elizabeth, and they had 3 children: Charles (a minister), Milas and Minnie. After Elizabeth's death, he married Katherine Miller and had 4 children: Belle (Jonas Heape), William, Jacob and Mary (Andy Brown).

Dorothea "Dort" (1847) who married Samuel Ferguson and had one son, Samuel Jr. Her husband, Samuel, was killed in the Civil War. She then married Fred Opp and had 5 children: Ira, Frank, Mary, Nora and Anna.

Samuel and Anna Marlow

Samuel Daniel "Bud" (1849) married Elizabeth McCluney and Eliza Bridges. He was the father of Dan Marlow and Myrtle Roberts of Tamaroa, and others.

Walter Rufus (1852) who married Minnie Casmeyer.

Mary Angelina (1855) who married Richard Opp and had 9 children: William, Sam, Richard, Mattie, Viola, Sherman, Leonard, Loren and Bertha.

Martha Ann "Matt" (1858) who married James Gregory and had 5 children: Florence, Grover, Evalyn, Inez and Carlisle.

Rebecca (1860) who married John Ing and James Warren (see J. Ing biography).

Samuel was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church (Hardshell) in Paradise Prairie. Politically he was, as a grandson said, "a died in the wool"

Democrat. He passed away home in Holts Prairie. He is buried in Campbell Cemetery. Nancy (b. 1804) died 1904 and was buried beside him. Submitted by granddaughter

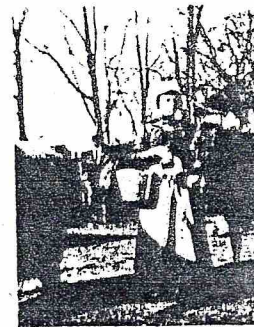

MARLOW-J

James Thomas Marlow (b. about five miles west of Pinola, Mo., 1859, the second of nine children (1828-1914), and Delilah who had come from Tennessee. His education was only such as rural schools afforded. His most valuable education was from "life's hard school" and he was a living for his family. He was a physician, though many of the roundings could ever qualify. Quite determined to press through obstacles, at the age of 20, with a few dollars, he entered Missouri at St. Louis, Mo., from where he graduated in 1886.

Soon thereafter he began his profession at Tamaroa, Mo., to practice until his death, in 1914, at the age of 55, a ty-eight years.

On Sept. 15, 1887, he married Helen Eaton (b. May 30, 1858, C. and Margaret Darrough). To this union were born three children: Grover (July 19, 1890) and one daughter, Mary (Sept. 15, 1894). As a veterinarian he operated the village dispensary and served as Postmaster for many years during President Grover Cleveland's administration. In addition to being licensed in medicine and to dispense drugs, he also held a veterinary license.

In the early days of the telephone he organized the benefit it would be organized and practiced. He financed the first Tamaroa telephone system in Perry Co. A petition was granted by N. Gore and Zebedee Heape. He authorized the Secretary of State, to issue open books for subscription share. On Apr. 6, 1906 he authorized The Tamaroa Telephone open subscription to Cap-

CHRISTIANE WILHELMINE OBST

Christiane Wilhelmine Obst was born in Sengrehra, near Wittenberg, Saxony, Prussia on the 19th Jan. 1837. Her father was Frank Obst and her mother was Johanna Rosine Miller or Muller.

No records available at this time for any further family names.

In 1862: March

The undersigned royal government attests herewith that to the Laborer Gottfried Krause from Seegrehna in the County of Wittenberg at his request and for the purpose of his emigration to America along with his wife, maiden name Obst and the following underage children who are under the father's authority:

Wilhelmina, born 7 Sep, 1856

Auguste, born 12 August 1858

Emilie, born 15 April, 1861

was granted the discharge from the Prussian Army.

This discharge document effects, however, only for the persons expressly named therein at the point in time for the delivery.....

of Prussian subjects. Merseburg, the 11th of March, 1862

1862 April

Johann Gottfried Krause, born the 1st of September, 1832 in Apollendsdorf, former resident here, who along with his wife, Christiane Wilhelmine, who was born here on 19 January, 1837, (her Maiden name was Obst); with whom he united himself in marriage on the 19 of September, 1858 in the local church, and who intends to emigrate to North America, produced with this his wife the following children that are still living:

1. Louise Wilhelmine, born 6 Dec. 1856

2. Christiane Wilhelmine, born 22 Jul, 1859

3. Emilie Emma, born 26 Mar, 1861

The above information is presented on the basis of the local church book, with the execution that the verification of the above has been done for a fee of 5 Schilling.

Sengrehra near Wittenberg, the 7th of April, 1860

Anton, Evangelical Minister

1862 April

Mr. Krause sent by the Magdeburg-Halberstadt Railway the goods listed below that were given to us today: Magedburg, the 8th of April 1862. (sent to Bremen)

The ship register:

*The ship name was called Bremen
From Bremen and South Hampton to New York Arrived April ,1862*

see copy of register.

Unknown if Gottfried made it alive to America.

*Gottlieb and Wilhelmina were Married 21 Feb. 1863 in St.
Clair Co. Ill. in Caseyville.*

Her mother is noted as living with them in one of the later census probably 1880.

It is believed that Gottlieb and Wilhelmina knew each other before the met and married in America.

Wilhelmine died 28 Oct. 1916 in Perry Co. Ill.

IN THE LATE 1830s the trails entered Perry County towns like Leesburg (near present Tamaroa), Nine Mile Prairie (near present Du Quoin and Jowa, east of Du Quoin—none of which survive.

Lost Prairie got its name when several men on their way from Vincennes to Kaskaskia became lost on the hitherto unnamed prairie. Names and dates are not known.

Some time between 1820 and 1830, Daniel Dry and his wife, living in Pennsylvania, packed their clothes and household goods into an old barrel. Mounting the barrel on wheels, they started for Perry County, Illinois. They walked every step of the way, pushing the barrel-cart.

The first deed given in Perry County was dated August 30, 1827, and covered the transfer to this same Daniel Dry of 35 acres, near the center of Twp. 6, R2W. The consideration was $200.

The Campbells

It must have been around 1800 that the Campbell-Hoge clan of Scots settled along the Little Muddy River, where Perry, Jackson and Franklin counties meet.

In the Eighteenth Century, when Scotland was having religious troubles, 250 Presbyterians led by John Campbell, chief of the clan, sailed for the British Colonies in America. They arrived in Philadelphia on an auspicious date — July 4, 1776.

Some of the group stayed in Pennsylvania. Others drifted into Tennessee. The rest traveled overland to St. Louis. Enroute these traded with friendly Indians and bought horses and cattle.

In St. Louis, French fur traders told them of a land in Illinois abounding with all the clans could wish for — "a little Scotland in America."

Mrs. Mamie Reheis has described how the clans met in conference "in an open field 'neath the moon and stars, and decided to take the trail through the wilderness to the haven described by the fur traders."

Following the St. Louis-Shawneetown Indian trail their pace was slow, as they camped, hunted, and let their stock graze along the way. They came to a well-wooded area, mixed with open prairie. They found three lakes, one of more than sixty acres. You may be sure these were soon known as Campbells Lakes. And Campbell Lakes they are today, what is left of them.

Deer, wild turkeys and fur-bearing animals were plentiful. Fishing was good. There was plenty of grass for their horses and cattle.

This was journey's end.

Those Scots were squatters. They had arrived before surveys were made, or land offices opened. They built their cabins, plowed and planted, and let the livestock run loose, identified by ear marks. They soon had comfortable homes.

In 1808, George Washington Campbell was born in the settlement. Washington was a son of John Campbell, chief of the clan.

The son prospered. At one time or another he owned 15,000 acres of land in the area, including a patent on the land on which his father had squatted.

One of the pieces of land was located in Section 34, Twp. 6W, R1E, Perry County, which later became known as the John Mann farm. It was here that the Campbell Cemetery was located, and where John Campbell is buried.

Thompson Moore was one of the Scots left behind in Pennsylvania. The Moore family came to Illinois, evidently by way of Tennessee. They settled near present Ewing, Franklin County.

About 1822, Washington Campbell and some friends rode over for a quick visit with the Moores — Washington had promised his father to return early the next morning in time to run a trap line.

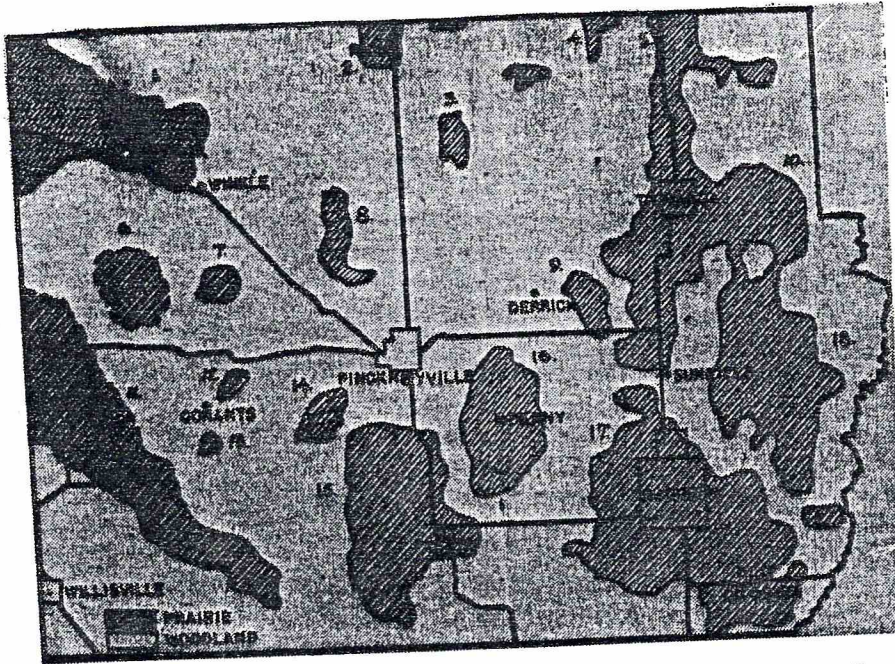

There at the Moores', Washington met the one and only. She was 16-year-old Phronie, with hazel blue eyes, raven hair and dimpled cheeks.

When the boys left that night for the Little Muddy, Washington told Phronie he would call again, sometime.

It was not until June that he called. And found the family all packed, ready to leave in their covered wagons for Tennessee. Wash talked to Phronie. And to her parents. He accompanied the family to Frank's Fort (West Frankfort).

Wash found a justice of the peace, and he and Phronie were married, standing beside a loaded wagon on a dusty road.

After farewells, Phronie rode pillory behind Washington to the Campbells. All of her belongings were carried in a red handkerchief.

THE PRAIRIES of Perry County as Europeans first saw them in the early eighteenth century included: 1, Grande Cote; 2, Round; 3, Hutchings; 4, Mud; 5, Upper Paradise; 6, Lost; 7, Brush; 8, Burnt; 9, Upper Holt's; 10, Johnson's (part of Paradise); 11, Six Mile; 12, Eaton's; 13, Conant's; 14, Galum; 15, Four Mile; 16, Lower Holt's; 17, Nine Mile; 18, Lower Paradise.

Here were found tall grasses, herbaceous plants and a scattering of trees.

On the prairies grew big and little blue-stem, drop-seed and other species of the grass family. Herbaceous species were golden-rod, asters, sunflowers and a host of other flowering plants for which Illinois prairies were noted.

Today, Perry County prairies have been turned into farms. However, remnant examples of prairie flora may be found along the railroad between Du Quoin and Tamaroa.

Many mammals and birds known to the pioneers have been able to cope with the development of the county and are still around. A few, such as the bison, lynx, turkey, grouse and passenger pigeons, have become extinct. Deer and beaver have been reintroduced.

Much of the surface of the county is flat, or gently rolling. Considerable erosion is to be found along some of the larger streams. Seminary Hill at Old Du Quoin, rising a hundred feet or so above the surrounding area, is the highest elevation in the county.

The surface of Perry County was shaped by the great Illinoian glacier of about 160,000 years ago and by later erosion.

During the great ice ages, Illinois repeatedly was overridden by glaciers. The illinoian reached southward to just below Carbondale. Drift from this glacier originally was some 15 feet deep. If earlier glaciers reached as far south as Perry County all evidence has been worn away, or covered by Illinoian drift.

With the retreat of the Illinoian glacier, a large lake of melt water was created along the Big Muddy River system. Embayments from this lake extended up the Beaucoup and Little Muddy rivers into Washington County. Campbell Lakes on the Little Muddy undoubtedly are remnants of this glacial lake.

Wind-blown deposits (loess) overlies glacial till and cover Perry County to an approximate mean depth of four feet.

In 1803, Jarrold Jackson built a toll over the Little Muddy on the Shawnee Kaskaskia Road.

Apparently the first settlers on Paradise were David Dial and David In 1815, Edward Rees settled by a near Tamaroa. Named "Reese Creel" stream now supplies water to the Du reservoir.

Paradise was the largest prairie in Perry County, extending north along US Highway 150 into Washington County. An arm extended southeast from near Tamaroa.

Looking over this prairie from a high elevation, Elijah Wells exclaimed, "This is the best I ever expect to see near Paradise that I ever expect to see. And so the prairie was named.

However, about 1829, Elijah Wells, not satisfied with Paradise, built a mill on the west side of Nine Mile Prairie, on the Kaskaskia Road.

Dr. Brayshaw, one of the earlier settlers in the county, lived on Nine Mile near Old Du Quoin, and attended school at Cutler, on the west side of the county, some miles distant.

How Nine Mile got its name is somewhat of a mystery. One source says it was nine miles long, or nine miles from some specific spot.

A clue to the problem was given by Flack. Abner surveyed the state from Shawneetown to Kaskaskia, and named the Six Mile and Nine Mile prairies their names, the names indicate their names.

In 1816, William Hutchings settled on the south side of the prairie which bore his name. William's son, John R., helped locate Perryville and later served as County Clerk. John R. also was an early teacher and Baptist preacher.

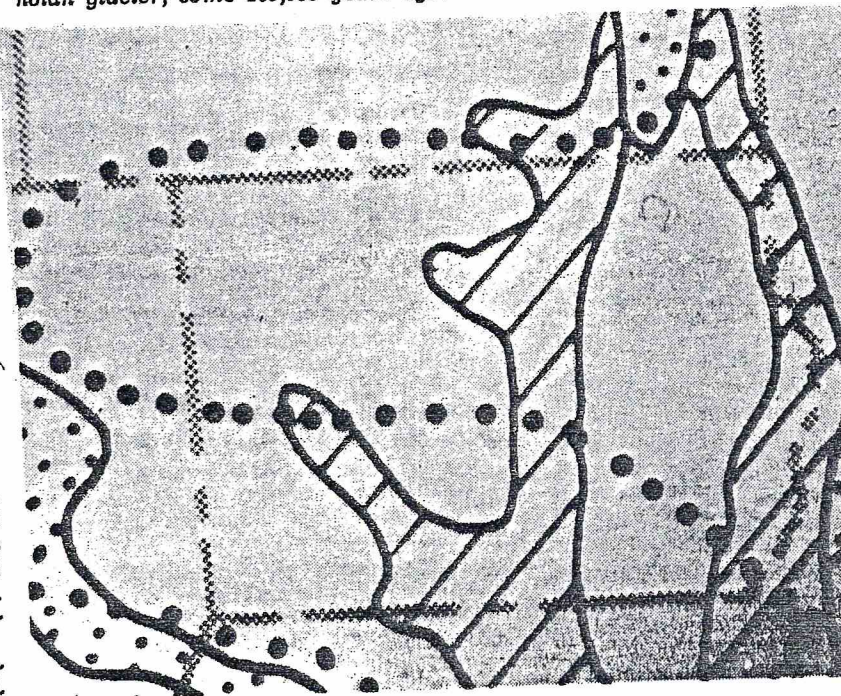

John Hutchings, William's brother, lived near the Beaucoup in Sec. 19, Twp. 19, R. 18. On October 8, 1830, he was killed by a family of two parents and children, signing his name with an 'H'.

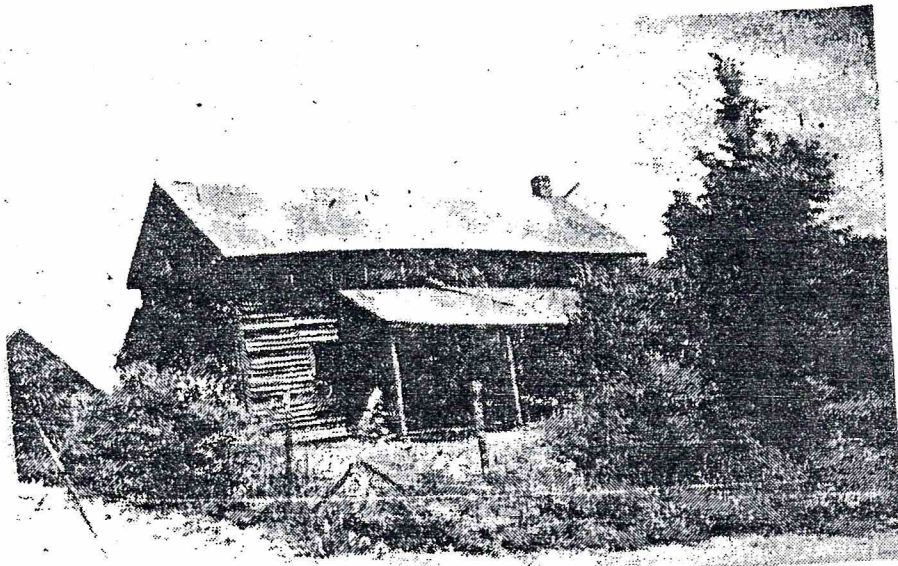

Early Settlers

Most of the early settlers in Perry County came from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia. It was said their culture was traceable to Elizabethan England. Religiously they were predominately fundamental Protestants.

John Flack came with his family in 1799, and settled on Four Mile Prairie. These were the first permanent settlers in Perry County. Flack's son, John, Jr., was born on this prairie in 1801. It is believed that young John was the first baby born in the county.

GLACIAL LAKES on the Beaucoup (center) and Little Muddy (right) were created by the melting water of the great Illinoian glacier, some 160,000 years ago.

ONE OF THE first post offices in the area, on the old Kaskaskia to Shawneetown trail, was this building near the extreme eastern side of Township Five at Pleasant Shade, on what was later known as the Murray farm. The post office was in existence prior to 1847. According to local tradition, Abraham Lincoln once slept at Pleasant Shade while on his way from Benton by stage coach to catch a train at Tamaroa.

18, 1859. The post office was re-established in Perry County July 6, 1866; and discontinued November 8, 1869.

These post office transfers were made when the boundary between Perry and Franklin counties was re-defined, and the Little Muddy finally was declared the county line.

St. Johns (originally St. John): Post office established June 26, 1858; discontinued March 15, 1930. Incorporated as a village April 6, 1903; includes Eagle (Eagletown). Now RFD from Du Quoin.

Sunfield (Diamond City, Diamond Town): Almost three miles north of Du Quoin. Laid out September 15, 1864, on both sides of the IC railroad. A former mining town, not incorporated. PO established July 10, 1886; discontinued November 15, 1897. Now RFD from Du Quoin.

Swanwick: Located on Ill. 13, northwest of Pinckneyville. Town was laid out May 27, 1871, and named in honor of Thomas Swanwick, who had migrated from England in 1819. PO established January 25, 1871.

Thomas Swanwick, said to have been wealthy, came from Chester, England, and settled on a prairie in the northwest part of the county, giving it the name "Grand Cote (Grand Prairie)." Some unimaginative neighbors, so it has been claimed, wanted to honor him, so they changed the name to Swanwick Prairie.

In the family cemetery, about 200 yards from the old Swanwick mansion, six graves were found. We identify two.

Thomas Swanwick.
Born, Nov. 28, 1773.
Died, July 24, 1828.

"Sacred to the memory of Robert Eveleigh Taylor of Bolton-on-Moors, Lancashire, England. A physician of Tamaroa: PO established March 14, 1859. It was incorporated as a village February 5, 1867.

In 1854, the IC railroad decided to locate a station at present Tamaroa. Col. R. B. Mason, chief engineer for the railroad asked Mrs. Nelson Holt and Mrs. B. G. Roots to name the station.

The ladies first selected the name of one of the Illini tribes, Kiawkashaw. Later they repented, and used the French name for the tribe, Tamaroa.

Tamaroa was founded in 1854. But before there was a Tamaroa there was an Appleton, dating back to 1828. The Appleton post office was established March 10, 1848, and discontinued January 8, 1855.

According to Raymond C. Lee, Appleton extended from the southern half of the present village to a short distance south. No information was given about Appleton. The site is on the old Shawneetown-St. Louis road.

In August, 1869, when a permanent location for Southern Illinois Normal was being selected, Tamaroa offered the trustees a $50,000 grant and 3,100 acres of ground.

Carbondale won the site, because, so 'twas said, of an offer of more money, and of the political influence of Gen. John A. Logan.

Wallsend: This post office had the shortest existence of any in Perry County. It was established April 16, 1873, and discontinued May 5, 1874 — one year and 19 days.

Willisville: In Perry and Randolph counties: PO in Perry County; established July 15, 1896; active. It was incorporated as a village March 5, 1900, and includes Dolly Hill.

Wm. A. Glore had the Willisville site surveyed August 8, 1893, and evidently gave the name to the town. Many additions have been made to the original survey, Glore adding nine.

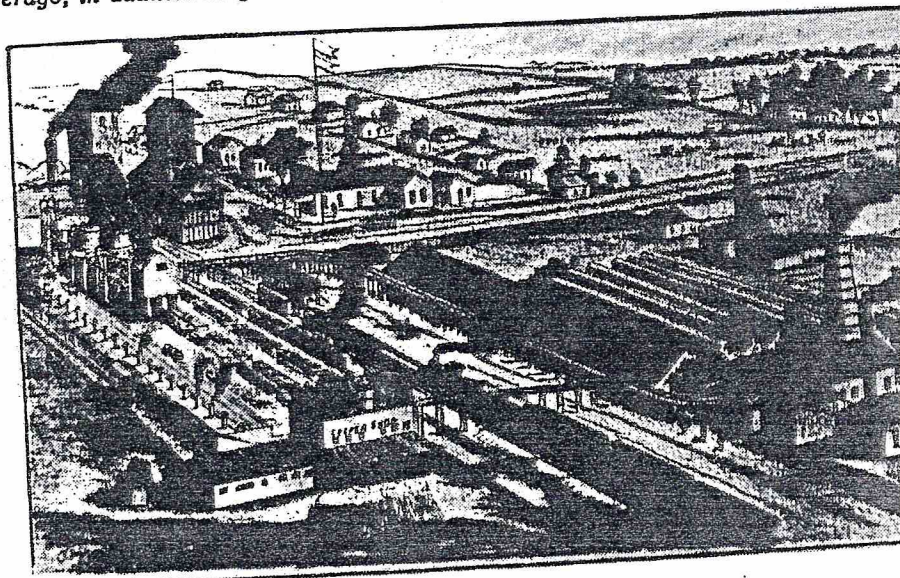

The Willis Coal Co., contributed much to the early economy of the town. The company operated two mines. Also, it owned a large dairy herd, and built a large barn and modern eminence in his native town and a man beloved and respected by all who knew him.

He died, Sept. 12, 1827, aged 54 years."

According to Arch Voight, Benton, the map of England shows the city of Bolton in Lancashire, which possibly is the town named on the stone.

This spring (1975) the PO Department was about to close the Swanwick post office because of insufficient business. However, the community rallied. The community spirit prevailed, and the post office was saved. At least for the time being.

ST. JOHNS, one of the extensive enterprises of Capt. W. P. Halliday, boasted salt works, coal mine, grain elevator and co-op-erage, in addition to general store, and coke ovens.
